Read what the Editor of the Philadelphia North American and United States Garette says of it:

"Course Harry, my May. Grey.—This work, an advance copy of which we have received, is one among seventeen of the popular works which Mrs. Grey has written. Among them. The Gipsey's Daughter' and the 'Gambler's Wile' will be 'emembered with especial piesaure by many of our readers. The present story is among the best of them, and has received high praise from the leading journals of London, as a vigorous, impassioned production. We think the eulogy mostly just."

passioned production. We similar the enough mostly justified in this fascinating novel. Mrs. Grey has surpassed har former productions, talented and powerful as they were. The characters are well conserved, and anid all the variety which they exhibit, are singularly true to asture. The plot too, is well-imagined and carries the reader through the progress of the story with unabated interest."—[John Buil.

"Cousin Harry' is likely to be a great favorite. The story of tains abundant sources of interest, and is took with clearnest still, often, with considerable dramatic power."—[Mornd Cheeseles " An animated and impassioned story."-[Post. The merit of producing an admirable story may be justly awarded to Mrs. Grey."—|Sanday Times. "The story is told with much pathes, and powerfully appeals to the feelings of the reader."—[Unserver.
